'You will be my witnesses'

For the disciples of Jesus, Ascension meant that their period of training was over and the time had arrived for the beginning of their mission, 'to go out to the world and proclaim the good news to all creation'. The disciples were reminded by the angels that their mission was not to stand around looking up to heaven, waiting for something to happen. They were called upon to make things happen. Let us, then, remember that Ascension is not about Jesus going away. It is about Jesus staying around, truly visible, audible, touchable and reachable in the lives of us who profess the Christian faith.
