Recognising Jesus

The disciples have spent some time now with Jesus. The time has come to declare clearly: Who are they following? What is it that they find in Jesus? What do they grasp of his life, his message and his project?

Ever since they've joined him, they go about questioning his identity. What surprises them most is the authority with which he speaks, the power with which he heals the sick, and the love with which he offers God's forgiveness to sinners. Who is this man in whom they feel God so present and so close as a friend of life and of forgiveness?

Among the people who haven't been walking with him, there are all kinds of rumours; but Jesus is more interested in his disciples' position: "But you, who do you say I am?". It's not enough that among them are various opinions, some more and some less certain. What is fundamental is that they who have committed themselves recognise the mystery of Christ's life. If they don't, who will keep his message alive?

But the question is also vital for his disciples. It radically affects them. It's not possible to follow Jesus in an unconscious and casual manner. They have to know him all the more deeply. Peter, recalling the experiences that they have shared with him up to this point, answers in the name of all of them: "You are the Christ". Peter's confession is still limited.

The disciples don't yet know about Jesus' crucifixion at the hands of his enemies. They can't even suspect that he'll be raised up by the Father as the Beloved Son. They don't have any experience that lets them grasp all that is enfolded in Jesus. They just follow him closely, gradually discovering this with growing faith.

That is the template for our own following of Christ. At no time do we possess the full story of Christ or experience the full depth of his presence. This gradually comes to us with life's experiences. But first, we must recognise Jesus as 'The Christ'.

Season of Creation September 1st – October 4th 2024

"To hope and act with creation"

An End to Waste

Let us pray for an end to the waste and desecration of God's creation for access to the fruits of creation to be shared equally among all people and for communities and nations to find sustenance in the fruits of the earth and the water God has given us.

*Almighty God,
you created the world and gave it into our care so that, in obedience to you, we might serve all people:
inspire us to use the riches of creation with wisdom, and to ensure that their blessings are shared by all;
that, trusting in your bounty, all people may be empowered to seek freedom from poverty, famine, and oppression.*

You are invited

Our Parish Bio Diversity Group is hosting a talk, and social gathering as well as a garden visit, on Saturday 28th September, at 10.30am. Eleanor Turner, Bio Diversity Officer with Kerry County Council (KCC), will be the guest speaker. Eleanor will outline the supports KCC offers to voluntary groups in the community in their work to restore, promote and protect 'our common home' and 'local diversity'. All are welcome to attend for coffee, chat and a guided garden visit.
